Women empowerment.

Poor definition of Women Empowerment

Women empowerment can be defined as ~~providing~~ Women demanding their rights and wanting gender equality. Women rights ~~has~~ ^{have} always been oppressed by male dominated ~~society~~ ^{society}. In developing countries being ~~a~~ ^{is} a woman is equal to being a less worthy being. They are paid less for equal work and have legal ~~boundries~~ ^{boundaries} on them. Moreover, ~~ever~~ ^{platforms} harassment at different platform is another issue. This movement started to support women and protect their right. So, they can have equal opportunities. ~~Many women~~ ^{harassment} were unable

This movement has helped so many women to step out of their homes and get a job, because of this they are able to get financial independence. ~~This women~~

It is important for us to empower women, so they can be much more than a housewife. They can be leaders as well. The society has always expected women to be dumb, that they ^{cannot} understand how the world works because of this - they weren't even allowed to ~~not~~ vote. But thanks to this movement we can see women in male dominated fields they are world leaders and are working neck on neck with men. Although some countries are still behind, ~~but~~ hopefully they will catch up soon.
