Truth Lies Beyond Money

For a well-educated, intellectual, or brave individual, making money cannot be the primary goal in life, ~~just as eating is necessary but not life's central purpose.~~ while all healthy people enjoy earning money, they value the purpose behind their work more.

A good soldier fights to win battles not merely for pay, likewise, true clergymen aim to preach, not profit; sincere doctors focus on healing not fees. For all highly trained and courageous individuals, duty comes first and payment second, though both are important.
