THE PARAGRAPH

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever".

A thing of beauty is a joy forever because it leaves an enduring emotional, spiritual and intellectual impact that transcends time, culture and circumstances. In Pakistan, the majestic landscapes of Kalam, Chitral, Hunza and Swat valleys, the architectural brilliance of Faisal Masjid, and the historical depth of Mohenjo-Daro are not merely tourist attractions but timeless symbols of beauty that awaken pride and inner peace. Literary contributions such as Allama Iqbal's poetry continue to stir patriotic and philosophical thought. Likewise globally admired wonders such as the Eiffel tower in France, the Taj Mahal in India and the paintings of Leonardo da Vinci, have stood the test of time. These masterpieces are proofs that true beauty, whether in art, nature or culture, becomes a legacy carved in stone. Beauty has healing power. In times of grief or conflict, people turn to nature, music art or sacred spaces for comfort. As the idiom goes, "beauty is food for the soul" offering hope in despair and calm in chaos. The humanitarian legacy of Abdul Sattar Edhi and moral courage of Malala Yousafzai in Pakistan mirror the global impact of figures like Nelson Mandela and Mother Teresa, proving that inner beauty is a candle that never burns out. These moral examples reveal how beauty also lies in human character and compassionate action. In essence, a thing of beauty is not fleeting but eternal, a beacon of joy that shines across generations. In a world marked by uncertainty and struggle, such beauty reminds us that some joys are indeed timeless.
