History is full of such successful people who started their life from hard times but later, they ~~were~~ counted among those who were successful and renowned personalities. Success, honor and popularity is not easy to earn only money can be earned easily but, it has a crucial condition that your forefathers must have property so that you would inherit it. You can buy worldly belongings from money, but you can not buy decades happiness. Sometimes it take ^{decades} centuries to earn respect whereas, a moment is enough for contempt and conflict.
