History is full of such people, who beginning their lives in the most difficult circumstances, but in the future they became among the most successful and eminent personalities in the world.

Success, honor and fame are never given to you on a plate, only wealth can be given to you on a plate. For this, there is a condition that your ancestors.

Should have owned property, only then will you get wealth. With wealth, you can buy worldly goods but you cannot buy happiness. Sometimes it takes decades for a person to earn respect, but it only takes a moment to earn humiliation or become controversial.
