

Translation

The history is filled with numerous people who started their lives with difficult circumstances, but afterwards they became the successful and famous personalities of the world. Success, respect, and fame are not presented without struggle. Only wealth can be achieved without putting efforts, but still there is a condition behind this, a person may inherit property from his ancestors, then he can get wealth easily. In this world, people can buy anything with wealth, despite they can not get happiness and content. Sometimes, it takes centuries to earn respect; however, it takes only a moment to become humiliated or controversial.
