Q. Translate the following into English, keeping in view the idiomatic / figurative expression (10)

There are many successful people in the history whose lives were very difficult in the beginning, but later they became among the most successful and prominent people in the world. One can never have success, respect and fame without going an extra mile. This is only possible in the case of wealth, only if it is inherited. We can fulfil our worldly desires with wealth but happiness cannot be bought with it. Sometimes, respect takes a lifetime to be earned by a person, on the contrary, humiliation and controversy need only a few moments.
