History has an enormous examples of successful persons who started their lives in difficult circumstances but latter on, they were became the goal achievers and famous personalities. Success, respect and fame should never serve you like a piece of cake. Only the money can give you in some easy ways but for that, it is necessary you grandparents must be fidel lords, then you will get it easily. You can buy materialistic things from money but money can't buy happiness. Sometimes, decades are required for a person to earn respect but for dis-respect, only a moment is enough to earn it.
