History is full of successful individuals who began their lives under extremely difficult circumstances, but with time, they rose to be amongst the successful and renowned personalities. Success, respect, and fame are never served to you on a plate, only wealth can sometimes be handed to you on a silver plate. Even that comes with a condition, your ancestors must have owned property; only then will you inherit wealth. Money can buy you worldly comforts, but it can't buy your happiness. Sometimes it takes decades for a person to earn respect, but a single moment is enough to earn disgrace or become controversial.

History is replete with such successful people who began their lives in extremely difficult situations, but with time, they became successful and famous personalities. Success, respect, and fame cannot come to you on a platter; only wealth can be bestowed upon you if you have ancestral property. For this, it is also imperative that your forefathers have left you with some property, only then you can gain wealth. With wealth, you can buy worldly possessions, but you cannot buy happiness.

Sometimes, it takes many years for a person to earn respect or fame, and it takes only a moment to lose it by becoming involved in a dispute or by committing a shameful act.
