

Translation

History is replete with such successful people who began their lives in extremely difficult situations, but with time, they became successful and famous personalities. Success, respect, and fame cannot come to you on a platter; only wealth can be bestowed upon you if you have ancestral property. For this, it is also imperative that your forefathers have left you with some property, only then you can gain wealth. With wealth, you can buy worldly possessions, but you cannot buy happiness. Sometimes, it takes many years for a person to earn respect or fame, and it takes only a moment to lose it by becoming involved in a dispute or by committing a shameful act.

Success, respect, and popularity never come with ease. It is only wealth that can be granted easily, even for which there is a condition that the wealth must be ancestral.

With <sup>wealth</sup> ~~with~~, you can buy worldly luxuries, but not happiness. At times, it takes centuries for a man to earn respect, but just a moment to earn disgrace.
