TRANSLATION

History is full of people who had a rough start to life but later went on to become some of the most renowned and successful personalities in the whole world. Success, fame and respect are not served on a silver platter, only money is, and that too on the condition that one is born into generational wealth. Money can buy all luxuries of life but it cannot buy happiness. Sometimes, a person can spend decades of ~~their~~ to earn a name for himself, but it only takes a moment to fall into disgrace and become controversial.

History is replete with such successful people who began their lives in extremely difficult situations, but with time, they became successful and famous personalities. Success, respect, and fame cannot come to you on a platter; only wealth can be bestowed upon you if you have ancestral property. For this, it is also imperative that your forefathers have left you with some property, only then you can gain wealth. With wealth, you can buy worldly possessions, but you cannot buy happiness.

Sometimes, it takes many years for a person to earn respect or fame, and it takes only a moment to lose it by becoming involved in a dispute or by committing a shameful act.
