History is full of successful people who faced great hardships in the beginning, but later went on to join the ranks of world's most successful and renowned individuals. Success, respect and fame are earned; only wealth may be inherited, and even that depends on whether your ancestors left something behind. With wealth, you can buy material necessities but you cannot buy happiness. Sometimes, a person takes years to earn respect, but a moment is enough to face humiliation or become controversial.

History is replete with such successful people who began their lives in extremely difficult situations, but with time, they became successful and famous personalities. Success, respect, and fame cannot come to you on a platter; only wealth can be bestowed upon you if you have ancestral property. For this, it is also imperative that your forefathers have left you with some property, only then you can gain wealth. With wealth, you can buy worldly possessions, but you cannot buy happiness. Sometimes, it takes many years for a person to earn respect or fame, and it takes only a moment to lose it by becoming involved in a dispute or by committing a shameful act.
