~(Q#1)~

~(A)~

When powerful economies of the world have used international monetary system in their benefit then the financial autonomy of developing countries seems like a distant dream. International financial systems give loan on such conditions that instead of making the economy of indebted country prosper, it leads to more dependence. This process has birthed to a new system where ~~tools~~ weapons of the rulers are not guns, but currency, interest and market. Today, the biggest challenged for the world is to ~~not~~ establish a between prosperity and autonomy which does not make their national interests in compliance with the international pressure.

~(B)~

Advanced technology has where created easiness for human life, it has also given birthed to new questions about privacy and human integrity. In this age of digital surveillance, every moment of the citizens is being saved in any database. Governments and corporations are converting this endless abundance of information into their strengths which can be guessed by human behaviour.

If this situation will not be controlled through effective legal and moral principles, future man maybe called independent, but his independence will be only be a myth.
