

Question no. 3

ii. The treaty was ratified by all member states except two.

(i) The policy is consistent with the principles of international law.

(iv) His argument rests on a fundamental misconception.

(v) The success of the summit depends upon mutual cooperation.

(iii) The findings are compatible with previous research outcomes.

Question no. 4

(i) For good

The couple had obtained their foreign nationality and decided to leave their country for good.

(iii) See eye to eye with

After their fight with each other, the two brothers did not see each other eye to eye and disagreed on the most basic issues.

(i) To break the ice

In order to break the ice between the husband and his estranged wife, their friends showed them a couple's movie.

(v) Tamper with

The police suspected foul play as the brakes of the car had been tampered with.

(ii) Nip in the bud

The ~~doctor~~ parents nipped the evil in the bud when they sent their children's bad company away.

Question no. 2

(iv) The scientist, along with his team, was conducting experiment.

(viii) None of the explanations seems satisfactory to the panel

(vii) When I was walking through the corridor, the paintings caught my attention.

(vi) The data suggests that every student has improved his performance

(iii) The committee discussed and agreed to implement what the chairman had proposed.

Question no. 1

When the strong economies tilted the global financial system for their benefits, the economic sovereignty of the developing countries began to look like a distant dream. The conditions imposed by international financial institutions, in lieu for loans, push the indebted economies towards a further debt in contrast to strengthening their economies. This has given birth to a ~~new~~ ^{neocolonial} ~~neo liberal~~ system where the rulers hold currency, interest and markets in place of guns over the ruled. The biggest challenge for the contemporary global nations is maintaining a balance between development and sovereignty ^{such} that ~~is~~ ~~impervious~~ to ~~global pressures~~ their national interests are impervious to global pressures.

B

Modern technology has acted as a double edged sword by facilitating individual lives and ~~curbing~~ ^{questioning} individual freedom and dignity. In this era of digital surveillance, ^{all} the moments of citizens are ^{being} stored in one or another database. Governments and corporations are transforming this unlimited information into a means of power to ~~inflict~~ ^{influence} ~~effective~~ change even in human behaviour. If this situation is is not brought into the ambit of effective morality and legislation ~~either~~, the humans of the future might be free in theory but this freedom will be a mere shroud of freedom.