Question 1

Translate expressions.

(A) Translation

When the powerful economies of the world have controlled global economic system for their own benefit, then economic independence became a dream for under-developed countries. Global wealth organizations impose such conditions on the name of loans that push economies of countries already in debt towards more dependancy instead of sustainable development. This act has given birth to neo-colonialism era where the tools of dominance are not weapons but are currencies, usuary and markets. Today, the biggest challenge for the world is to establish the balance between progress and independence such that the global pressure cannot control the national interests.

(B) Translation

Where the latest technology has facilitated human life, it has also raised questions against personal independence and human dignity. In this era of digital surveillance, each moment of citizen's life is being saved in database. Governments and organizations are converting this pile of information into a power that can even affect the human behaviour. If this situation is not treated legally and morally, then the human of the future will just be independent by name, but his real independence will merely be an illusion.
