Value of Opinions in London

The author is of the opinion that London is a place where an individual's value is connected to his ~~man~~ true worth. While in other cities, the individual hides his wisdom and sociability. In Manchester too, his wealth and social connections are all that matters. One does not take account of wisdom or opinions over wealth. On the contrary, London is not a place for such rankings. Everyone is valued regarding wisdom, ethics and contributions. Moreover, an individual is not judged on his profession but on the capability of making a good impression and open mindedness. Such values are used to imagine someone's value. In the rest of country, people are entertained by money but if one wants equality and truthful discussions, London is the place where one does not need money to be honest.
