London : The Only Egalitarian Society

London is the only place where individuals are ^{judged} by their intellectual and social characteristics. Whereas, the rest of the region provide more weightage to materialistic features. They value people based on their wealth and power.

In London, the status of a man is defined by his intelligence and manners.

This humbles down rich and influential people. A visitor will be assessed on his personality and character rather than his wealth. In other areas, voting other regions validate his views based on his status of wealth.

Q3- Comprehension

1- "Time disease" refers to the ^{different} aspects of modern civilization, which triggered these ailments. The technicalities of the world makes a person exhaust his body and mind. The author argues that a man is not a machine. It drains man and ^{creates} dangerous threats to his health. Therefore, it results in various diseases during the modern times.

2- Modern man suffers because of his weak faith in God. This ^{leads} ~~causes~~ him towards uncertainty in his fate. He feels helpless in correcting worldly affairs. He shows exhaustion and dissatisfaction in his work. His frustration towards others make him ill. Thereby, modern man suffers from his time due to disinclination from God.

③ 3. In order to combat "time disease", a man ~~must~~^{should} strengthen his belief in God. This will pave way for his mental peace, as he has left his fate to God. Since God is the disposer of worldly affairs, he let his mind rest over the chaos of the world. Faith in God makes him more optimistic, resulting in greater work satisfaction and cordial relations with others. His desires for world and his fear of death will subside because he follows the way of God. Hence, he will have greater mental and physical stability.

4. According to the last structure, the absence of God in a man's life either makes man fear death or induces his desires for pursuing worldly life. If the God was present in man's life, he would have prevented his
