London: A Place for Equal society ✓ 4

According to Author, London is the only city, where people ~~treat~~ treat you only for what you are in that moment. Outside the London, people judge you by your wealth and connections. These things become more important than intellect, and disturbed the social behaviour. In large cities people never give attention to this matter and their words spread quickly.

In society, every man is valued by his intelligence and manners. In London, even a member of parliament becomes just a normal man. A merchant or manufacturer no one can show off his goods or wealth. The only thing which matters is, whether he is a kind or good expression. and this is how people judge you. According to Author, London is the only city where he or every one can express his/her honest opinion without any pressure.

Q 3 COMPREHENSION

Q 1 How does the expression "time disease" ... ?

2 'Time diseases' include impairment of heart, circulatory system and skeletal structure. They are caused by lifestyle and societal pressures of the present age. They arise from overstraining the body and mind to meet technical, social or professional demands.

Q 2 Why does modern man suffer from his time?

2 Modern man suffers because the pace and demands of contemporary life exceed human physical and psychological limits. He ^{experiences stress, frustration} ~~suffers~~ from work, fellow humans, the world and himself. At the last he ~~lost~~ ~~his~~ ~~peace~~ suffers, because he lost his fate on God.

Q3 What cure would you suggest to combat these ills?

Translation

Literature is not the game of words; instead, it is the reflection of the experience and emotions of humans. When a poet or scholar holds a pen and sketches the picture of his era and remained an example for the upcoming generation. Our great poets like Galib, Iqbal, and Faiz not only do poetry but they also nurtured the soul of customs into words. Unfortunately, today's generation is going away from books and lost in the glory of social media. If we do not revive our customs we will lose our identity. Literature is the only way to reconnect us back to our roots. There is a great need to develop the interest of reading in the young generation and introduce them to the great scholars and poets, so they remain connected with their roots.
