Q no 2:-

Title:-

Paradox of Clean energy

Precis:-

Renewable energy is considered a salvation for environmental future. Everyone brands it as a promise of healing. However green revolution is draining earth as much as fossil fuel did in past.

Every "green energy" source has a silent cost. ~~Batteries~~ ^{They} need precious minerals which come from poor part of world. Sustainable development comes at cost of unsustainable practices.

Manufacturing of electric vehicles cause more harm to environment. The Batteries fill up landfills under the banner of progress.

Solar and wind farms have silent costs such as non recyclable and toxic waste. Their recycling cost shortage of coal and increase in coal price. Dexter sold his merchandise at a higher profit than his rivals anticipated.

3) What does author imply about relation b/w luck and intelligence in Timothy Dexter's success?

Dexter's success was a mixture of luck and intelligence but he owes more to luck than intelligence.

His ventures in Newcastle were foolish but his luck got him a profit. Similarly in Caribbean and West Indies his luck earned him a fortune.

4) How does Dexter's repeated success in turning mockery into profit challenge conventional ideas about business wisdom and education?

Dexter challenged role of wisdom and education. He had little education and was known as a fool. But with luck by his side he turned profit where others could not.

Q7:-

If any professor of Urdu claims that he understands Ghalib very well and he can paint a picture of his literary prowess. No doubt he is showing off his literary prowess, but if one asks him to say a stanza like Ghalib, he will be helpless. Because understanding and creation are different realms. Understanding is product of wisdom ~~the~~ but the creation is result of divinity. The status that Ghalib got, it is not just due to study or ~~hardwork~~ but an embodiment of extraordinary brilliance, empathy and divine boon. This is the reason his poetry is still as relevant as it was in his time.
