

Question 3

1

Timothy Dexter's advised him to ship coal to Newcastle because it is a well-known city for unlimited supply of coal. The intended outcome of this suggestion was that they expected him to deprive of everything.

2

When Dexter's ship reached England, the local production was stopped due to miners's strike which caused an unexpected shortage. Due to this situation, his entire cargo was sold at a large profit. In this way his foolish venture turned to be a great victory.

3

According to the author, Dexter's success was not just because of luck. People used to underestimate his ~~ability~~ abilities which proved to be a blessing for him. It was the interplay of luck and intelligence that resulted in his repeated victories.

4

Dexter's repeated success in turning mockery into profit challenged conventional ideas about business wisdom and education in two ways. Firstly, he proved it underestimation can be turned into victory through proper strategies in business. Secondly, he also made it evident that no matter what people say, at the only ^{one's} ~~for~~ success speak

5

The way Dexter's rivals reacted to his victories show that it is human foolishness to degrade their opponents by improper means. Dexter's successes highlight that human perception ~~of~~ of foolishness and genius are often misperceived.

Because understanding and creating are two different things. Understanding is the product of wisdom, while creation is product of intuition and inspiration. Ghalib's success was not solely the result of luck but of extraordinary intelligence, feeling and God's blessing. That's why Ghalib's poetry makes the same impact on people even after centuries.

Question 2

The Invisible Cost of Renewable Energy

Renewable energy is ~~fantasized~~ fantasized by humans as an alternative to fossil fuels. Terms like carbon neutrality and net zero emission are used by activists of various sectors in a way like they are the solutions of all problems of the planet. There are various sources of renewable energy. The manufacturing of these sources require natural resources. The extraction of these resources causes ecological destruction. The mining practices took place in poor regions and degrade their environment. The progress of green technology brings destruction. Pollution, extraction and waste are other sides of sustainability.

The function of these sources often require fossil fuels; this makes ~~not~~ zero emission a slogan. Green technology is turned into a market product rather than causing philosophical awareness. Renewable energy is not a panacea to earth problems. It causes many degradations.
