Title: Green Energy is another marketing slogan

Renewable energy has been presented as a solution to environmental problems; however, if one notices then renewable energy sources need a great amount of resource extraction and mining. Sources of renewable energy, like solar panels and wind turbines need large amount of rare-earth minerals for their creation. In the similar way, electric vehicles, which were shown as remedies for environmental wounds, are also not free of environmental dangers. The batteries of electric cars emit a huge quantity of carbon. Coming to wind and solar panels farms, they are fine in usage, but their maintenance and parts are made of fossil fuel and they are transported on vehicles of fossil fuels. Thus, green energy is only a marketing campaign not an environment ~~heat~~ healing one as renewable energy is not less harmful than non-renewable energy.
