Q No: 05: A

The prisoner looked through the narrow window and said, "They call this justice, yet I have never been heard. The guard replied softly, "Orders are orders, sir. Freedom isn't decided here."

A journalist outside shouted, "The minister claimed, no one is above the law but who decides what law means when truth is behind bars?" The cell fell silent. The prisoner smiled faintly and whispered, "They can cage a man, but not his conviction."

Q No: 06:*i- fish out of water.

Without friends, Samina looked like a fish out of water at the party.

ii) Go to the wall

Despite all efforts, the project finally went to the wall.

(iii) To put back the clock

Hamza folded the old newspaper and sighed, wishing he could put back the clock to the day when life was simpler.

Q No: 07:

If a professor of Urdu claim that he fully understand Ghalib's poetry and can deliver lecture on qualities, he is indeed displaying his scholarly ability. However, if he asked to say a poetry of Ghalib, he will be helpless. Because understanding and creation are two different worlds. Understanding is the product of intellect, while creation is the result of intuition and divine inspiration. The rank Iqbalib attained was not merely due to study or hard work, but was a repletion of extraordinary intelligence, sensitivity and divine grace - That is why, even after centuries, his poetry touch hearts just as deeply as they did in his own time.

Q No. 03

01

Timothy Dexter's rivals, were tired of his success and wanted to mock and humiliate him. They expected this foolish idea to cause him a huge financial loss and ruin his reputation.

02

Timothy Dexter's ship coal to Newcastle, and miners' strike had halted coal production, causing a shortage - This unexpected situation allowed him to sell his coal at a high price, turning what seemed like a foolish plan into a profitable success -

03

The author implies that Dexter's success was a combination of luck and boldness rather than intelligence alone - His unusual decisions often succeeded because of fortunate circumstances rather than careful planning or business knowledge -

04

Dexter's success shows that formal education and traditional business wisdom are not the only paths to success.

05

Dexter's rival saw him as a fool because his ideas seemed absurd, but when those ideas succeeded, he appeared to be a genius. It can be inferred that people often judge others too quickly based on appearance.

Q NO: 02

The Illusion of Sustainable Progress

Renewable energy is widely celebrated as humanity's path to a sustainable future, yet it conceals significant ecological and moral costs. Solar panels, wind turbines, and electric vehicles require mining of rare minerals, causing environmental degradation in vulnerable regions. Battery production and disposal generate pollution, while infrastructure relies on fossil fuels, undermining claims of zero emissions. Environmentalism has become a marketing tool, prioritizing green labels over true ethics. Green sustainability requires restraint, efficiency, as current practice often harms the planet instead of healing it.
