

Part # II
Answer : 2

Title

The Cost of Revolution

Renewable energy is widely celebrated as humanity's moral break from the fossil fuel technologies like solar panels, wind turbines, and electric vehicles requires rare-earth minerals, cobalt, and lithium, for mining process, particularly in poor regions. Electric vehicles batteries are manufactured as eco-friendly but have limited lifetime, create a serious waste and cannot be recycled likewise, solar infrastructure depend on non-recyclable material and fossil fuel for manufacturing and maintenance undermining the "zero emission" myth. Ultimately, humanity's pursuit of sustainability has become a commercial fad rather than a genuine ethical transformation. True environmental responsibility requires moderation, efficiency and humility not another form of industrial exploitation disguised as progress.
