Essay

"Great power demands Great responsibility," Winston Churchill. This statement of Winston Churchill enunciates that world remembers those who deliver, not those who rules. Uneasy always lies in the head that wears the crown. Individually, person who owns position has responsibility of leading the nation in adverse situations, fulfillment of people's hope associated with him and making of advancements in field of medicines and technology. Socially, heavy is the head of social leader that wears the crown by working for removal of racial differences, (Duty) performing duty of empowering women and transgender and doing efforts for improvement of literacy rate and health units.

Economically, economists have to work hard for uplifting of states' economy, reduction of economic differences among people and creation of novel job opportunities for nationals.

Politically, National leader has to deliver for nation building by formulating strong foreign policy, maintaining internal security and boosting defence of the country. Internationally, global bodies that have authorities have to ensure protection of fundamental human rights, saving of earth's environment and safeguarding of territorial sovereignty. However, some leaders entrusted with responsibilities neglect their duties by breaching sovereignty, deepening economic differences and deteriorating environment. Power at individual, social, economic, national and international level demands responsibility to work for betterment of people, societies and nations; however, sometime, leaders neglect this responsibility and promote their selfish interest.

Grammar mistake

Heavy is the head that wears the crown because that power and prestige demands responsibility. One who holds certain important office has to work for the betterment for the whole humanity. Bigger the position, bigger the responsibility. History reveals that the person who ruled the nation, had to work enthusiastically.

Maos-Zedong bringing revolution through peasants for the wellbeing of weaker class is clearly mentioned in his book:

Analysis of classes of Chinese Society (1937). This shows that uneasy is always the head that wears the crown.

Apart from leading the nation in adverse condition, great people have to ensure fulfillment of people's hopes associated with them. When someone holds respectful and glorious position, society's expectation with him scourges. People want him to work for their welfare. They have to make sure that their efforts (boiling) bears fruits. When someone stands first in class, teachers and parents' hopes with him enhance. He has lead to creation of agricultural and industrial society. In industrial society, steam engine considered as product of great significance. With invention of steam engine, pressure on technology arises to make further progress. Development of Artificial intelligence by John McCarthy is the depiction of deliverance of technologist who is entrusted with certain responsibility. Similarly, advancement in field of medicine in form of antibiotics development, vaccine development, Polymerase Chain reaction and genetic engineering are the result of robust effort of people that possess certain position. This belief covers that uneasy always lies in hand of that individual who wears the crown.

Heavy is the hand of the social leader that wears the crown. He has to work for removal of racial differences. Inequality in one or another form always persist in any society. Social magnet has to work to eradicate these inequalities. Cardinal among social differences is discrimination on basis of races and castes. This property conflicts among people. Peace deteriorates and destruction of social fabric occurs.

In Africa, distinction among black and white was contrasting. Nelson Mandela removed this difference and enhanced status of black people in African Society. (Al-Jazeera Report).

Similarly, Hindus have differences of castes. Some are ostracized from society because of their castes.

Dalits were considered as untouchables. Sufi saints like Syed Ali Hijweri and Data Ganj Bakhsh removed these evils and propagated message of equality of all mankind (Iqbal Hussain). This illustrates that social leaders have to perform duty to remove social inequalities.

So Inequalities (are) not only racial, but also are gender based. From ancient society to modern one women and transgender are always marginalized. Social leaders have to give off their peace for the empowerment of unprivileged classes of the societies. Women are considered as the leading source of evil. They were objectified. They were given with less economic opportunities.

Representation in politics and governance was negligible. Therefore, gender activists render their services to provide rights to this economically, politically and socially deprived class.

Women of Europe and Africa were marginalized in each sector of society. They broke their chains and struggled for their rights and demanded equal political, social and economic rights. Maggie

Han and Rebecca Walker (Waves of Feminism). This manifests that heavy is the social load that wears the social crown.

Apart from working for empowerment of women and transgender, Great leaders has to improve literacy rate and boast health facilities.

Education and health are the basic rights of individual. Without these two rights, society can not flourish. Literacy is the key determinant of being civilized. It opens minds of people. It is passport to better future. Muslims of subcontinent were far behind in education than that of Hindus. Aligarh institute was established by Sir Syed Ahmed Khan to make educational elite class. Galaxies of scholars and institutes development exhausted plethora of energy of Sir Syed Ahmed Khan. (Aligarh Institute Gazette). Likewise, health idea of capitalism sprouts. Capitalism decreases role of government in regulating economy and gives power in hand of few people to central wealth of the nation. Private sector flourishes. Thus, private sector overlooks ordinary people rights and exploit them. To remove these economic differences, (it is ~~responsible~~) economist has to render valuable services.

"Snatch from them what is yours," economists has to devise fair economic policy when they are entrusted with nations economic responsibility.

Economic differences can only be reduced when economists will create novel job opportunities for people. Economic leader work untiringly to search alternative options for economic development.

To meet needs of people, they always come up with new ideas and innovations. As world is moving towards digital age, economists has also digitalised the currency.

Cryptocurrency constitutes three point formulate independent foreign policy. Status of their nation in the international arena and policy needs to be raise. They perform their duties to enhance their nation's political position. Pakistan is balancing its relation with America and also with China is the result of robust efforts of political leader (Mazhar Iqbal, analysis). Similarly Turkey under the rule of Tayip Erdogan is creating a balance with between two strategic enemies: Russia and America. This requires great deal of effort from political leader to formulate independent foreign policy.

Apart from maintaining glamorous international image, political leaders have to improve condition of internal security of the country. People have to be provided with right to secure life. Terrorist and extremist outfits have to be dealt sternly. Justice has to be maintained in any circumstance. In France, judicial system was not performing well to maintain peace and justice.

Codification of laws of France judicial system by Napoleon Bonaparte organized the judiciary and improved peace and security of nation (code Napoleon). It illustrates that political leader has to ensure internal peace and stability.

Internal peace and stability can be obtained only when political leader strengthens defense of the state. Whenever, defense of country weakens, stronger state took advantage of it and breaches sovereignty of the country. Apart from sovereignty violation other states also support non-state actors to create law and order situation in the enemy country. United States of America allocates 788 billion dollars, China allocates 299 billion dollars and Pakistan spends 1.32 billion dollars on defense of country (SIPRI). They show uneasy lies in the head of political leader to make a nation independent and prosperous.

decrease greenhouse gas emission and shifting towards renewable energy resources (COP-27, Jhathrom Al Sheikh), it enunciates that global leaders has to deliver services for securing natural environment of earth.

Additionally, International leaders has the duty of safeguarding right of sovereignty of nations. Every state has monopoly in its means of finance and legitimate violence. No state has legal right to invade other state territory. This sovereignty right is preserved by many organization after the bloody world war second. Every state has legitimate right of sovereignty, no state will breach this right of any state.

(Treaty of Westphalia, 1648). Similarly, there is laws about sea sovereignty.

State has right to extract resources from two hundred nautical miles of their ocean territories, (United Nations Law on Sea). They have to burn midnight oils to deliver their responsibilities.

Some leaders neglect their responsibilities. They do not bother themselves to perform their due duties. Cardinal among them is continual breach of sovereignty of many nations. It is clearly mentioned in United Nation rules that sovereignty is the primary right of any nation. United States of America, has used fifty one times veto power to legitimise the ongoing genocide in Gaza by Israel. Similarly, Russia invasion in Ukraine and vetoing of resolution to stop this war is the failure of global institution of United Nations. This betokens that sometimes great leaders prefer their interest on ordinary people rights.

Apart from breach of sovereignty, economic differences are widening among nation and people. This is because great economists are on duty of multiplying their wealth and doing nothing for betterment of condition of nation. One percent of the world population owns thirty percent

Not only ^{has} economic difference widen, but also ^{has} environment degrades. Wealthier nation and world economic powers are burning fossil fuel at ever increasing rate. This damages natural composition of the environment. They (do not) do not comply with global goals and binding of climate conferences. According to UNFCC, top ten industrial nations contribute ^{toward} seventy percent of total greenhouse gas emissions. It becomes that it is not necessary that one who wears the crown always feels heavy.
