Perception has it that renewable energy is the human's solution to all the damage caused by the fossil fuels, many policy makers use fancy terms that can save the planet from destruction but deep down, there lies a greater threat which is leading planet into exhaustion. Even Renewable energy sources are not just expensive but their material are obtained through rigorous clearing of earth and making the land infertile. It is ironic how saving the earth from the crisis is leading to the beginning of another crisis. Furthermore, electric vehicles are not ~~seamless~~ solutions as their batteries are leading to ecological waste, resulting in pollution and environmental damage under the illusion of sustainability.

LMATIAN

Similarly, the other renewable energy ~~sources~~ [✓] sources are not saving the earth but rather feeding to waste after years of working and functioning. Their creation and its effectiveness is ~~again~~ [✓] causing pollution and waste. Resultantly, this is morally ~~of~~ [✓] wrong of humans who have ~~turned~~ [✓] the banner of Sustainability into [✓] industry. The only way to save the environment is to adopt ~~actions~~ [✓] that demand life-changing habits of humans and renewed ~~consciousness~~ [✓] that earth is not being ~~as~~ [✓] being saved but rather exploited in a different way.

plz work on your language.

Qs. 1) Timothy Dexter's rivals advised him to ship coal to Newcastle, because it was a city already famous for its immense coal supply. The intended outcome was for him to follow their foolish advice, face failure and make him lose all his fortune.

Qs. 2) The unexpected event in England which transformed Dexter's apparently foolish coal venture into a profitable success was an abrupt, short supply of coal in the city, rich in coal business.

Qs. 3) The author's implication about the relationship between luck and intelligence in Timothy Dexter's success is that sometimes when intelligence falls short, luck comes into play and a little bit of faith in oneself, of being in the right place at the right time, due to sheer chance.

Qs. 4) Dexter's success directly challenged the conventional idea that education and traditional business are prerequisites for success.

He had no education and constantly made decisions that were risky yet he profited from it. His story suggests that unconventional thinking, confidence and a willingness to take risks can yield greater rewards.

Q5) The passage infers that the perception of foolishness and genius is contrasting and depends on the outcome. Doctor Dexter's rivals judged him for his foolish choices, however when he succeeded, those same foolish choices were termed as genius. This shows that people often label a plan as foolish or brilliant based on the result rather than its inherent logic.

Q6) The Prisoner looked through narrow window and said, "They call this Justice! yet I have never been heard." The guard replied softly, "Orders are orders! Sir freedom is not decided here." A journalist outside shouted, "The minister claimed: no one is above the law, but who decides what law means? When truth is behind bars..." The cell fell silent, the prisoner smiled faintly and whispered "They can cage a man, but not his conviction."

- ii) Use one ~~cupful~~[✓] with half a ~~haul~~[✓] of ~~water~~[✓].

The Prisoner looked through narrow window and said: "They call this Justice yet I have never been heard." The guard replied softly: "Orders are orders!" Sir Freedom is not yet decided here. A journalist asked snorted: "The minister claimed: no one is above the law, but who decides what law means? When truth is behind us... The cell fell silent, the Prisoner smiled faintly and whispered "They can cage a man, but not his conviction."

Q.7

If an unlearned professor, declares that he is well-versed with the writings of Ghalib and he can strike up a conversation regarding the literary pieces of his writings then the professor is rather professing about his knowledge and intellect but if you ask the same professor to create you ask the same professor to write a poetry like Ghalib he will become hopeless, as intellect and creation are two different things. Intellect is what you gain from knowledge whereas creativity is the result of inspiration and conscious choice. The status that Ghalib has, is not just through hardwork, but it through his exceptional intelligence, empathy and inspiration. This is the reason, still to this day
