Answer 1:

Timothy Dexter's rivals advised him to ~~him~~ Avoid cutting
Ship coal to Newcastle because they ~~were~~ are jealous of his success and fortune. They wanted ~~ed~~ to teach him a lesson.

The only purpose of their suggestion ~~is to~~ is to humiliate him. But ~~God~~ had planned something different for him. When his shipment reached England, there was strike in the country which created shortage of products. He sold his products and gained a lot of profit.

Answer 2:

There were strikes in England which had stopped production of local things. When Dexter ship reached England, there was shortage of products. Because of this advantage, he sold his cargo on a huge profit. The rivals of Dexter considered it a foolish decision but when they heard this event, they were surprised. This event changed foolish decision into profitable success.

Answer 3:

The author indicates its point, luck plays more role than intelligence in Dexter's success. Although Dexter has little education and he takes foolish business decision but luck has done his own work. This means that sometimes faulty decision~~s~~ turned into great success at right time and condition.

Answer 4:

The dexter's repeated success in which he turned mockery into profit shows that formal education is not essential for success. Despite having little education, he made wrong decision due to lack of understanding of knowledge, turned into success. Dex sometimes non-traditional decisions can be more beneficial than formal education. Therefore, his achievements challenges conventional traditions that depends only on education.

Answer 5.

From the way Dexter's rivals reacted to his achievements, it can be inferred that human perception of foolishness and genious is based on limited understanding. People tend to underestimate the abilities of others. They considered that their business decisions are meaningless. They misunderstand and until they become successful.

The Deception of Green Energy

Green Energy: Myth or Reality

06/20

Renewable energy is considered as shift from fossil fuels. Many people promote terms like carbon neutrality and net zero as they are the solution of environmental problems. However, the production of solar panels, wind turbines and electric vehicles rely on rare earth metal which are extracted mining process especially in poor countries causing habitat destruction. It is estimated that one environmental problem is controlled by creating other problem. Electric vehicles are also a source of carbon emission as their batteries emit more carbon emission than traditional engines. Solar and wind energy also produce significant waste and carbon emissions. The term green labels or technology hidden the costs of these infrastructures turning sustainability into marketing rather than ethical practice. True sustainability requires restraint, efficiency and systemic humility as renewable energy does not fully heal the planet.
