

Essay

Women Empowerment

women empowerment is a process in which women have given equal rights like men.

It does not mean only jobs but also gain education, taking decisions of their lives.

women should be economically strong.

The reason of women empowerment is to destroy the inequality of gender. It is essential for society's development.

According to some sources, women have 52% of the total population so they should be treated generously.

United Nation is specially working on women's right.

In Pakistan women's has some given some rights through campaigns for instance Benazir Income Support, girls education campaigns, women protection law.

Examples of women empowerment are education of women, business and other jobs.

Benefits of it is that development of society and country's better economy, less crime rate and educated future generation.

Examples of women empowerment are education of women, business and other jobs.

Benefits of it is that development of society and country's better economy, less crime rate and educated future generation.

Some world organizations are working on it. for instance UN women division, United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO). In short, women empowerment is essential for country's growth, education and economy -