Test #03

Question No. 02:

Direct To Indirect Speech.

Emma asked James if he had seen the latest draft of the community project proposal. James replied he had looked over it last night. Overall, it was fine, but some parts needed more details. Emma again asked which parts were unclear to him. Jake replied that the budget section was a bit vague and the timeline did not account for delays. In response Emma said she noticed that too, and asked whether they try to fix that before the meeting. Jake replied that they definitely need to change it, otherwise the committee might question their planning. Emma agreed and said she'll handle the budget section and asked Jake if he ^{could} take care of the timeline. Jake agreed and suggested that they can also ~~they can~~ throw in note about risk management.

Emme appreciated and decided to meet after lunch to combine and finalize their changes - Jake in response was hopeful about the new version, that would impress the committee and would avoid unnecessary question.

Question NO : 04

In life, success is not only the game of luck or good fortune, but is the result of consistency, hardwork and wisdom - Although the paths are full of uncertain hurdles and difficulties but those who steps forward with courage are able to reach their destination - Some people see the success of others with envy and take decisions in hurry, because of that they get trapped in failure - Those who give importance to suggestions and experiences of others, they find blessing in every disguise - Those who recognise and work on their demerits they not only get themselves succeeded but ~~are~~ become beacon of light for others -

Similarly, those who are fond of gaining knowledge and like to learn new experiences are able to take good better decision according to their thoughts and deeds.

Question No. 01.

Learning Beyond the Classroom

Learning extends beyond formal classroom and occurs naturally through everyday social interaction and participation. Informal learning takes place in community settings such as workshops, family gatherings, work place and places of worship, where individuals observe, cooperate, and exchange practical knowledge without structured instructions. Through shared activities, people develop not only technical skills but also communication, cooperation, judgment and problem solving abilities. Disagreements arising from different experiences are usually resolved through discussion, fostering tolerance and adaptability. Overtime, such interactions build confidence and mutual reliance, enabling individuals to apply acquired skills in wider social and professional contexts.
