Q.4)

Success in life is not merely result of fate or good luck; Instead, it is the reward of consistency, hard work and intelligence. Those who continue with morale and determination, get success despite the path of success is mostly full of hurdles and unexpected challenges. Some people make decision in hurry while seeing other's success hyporatically. They get entraped into failure's net. Yet those, who give importance to experience and advice, they may find an opportunity in every challenge. Those who try to cope up with their weaknesses, they not only make progress but also work as ~~twilight~~ twil-light for others. Similarly, those who have found of getting knowledge and learning from experience, they feel themseves well prepared in decision making regarding their matters.

Q.2

1) A series of experiments are being conducted by the researchers in the lab.
2) The final draft must be approved by the manager before submission.
3) My laptop has been stolen by someone from the office.
6) The project will have been completed by them by next week.
7) The problems are being solved by the students assigned by the teacher.

Q.1 "Importance of Informal learning in knowledge exchange."

The canvass of learning exists beyond the classrooms. The informal interactions are also the source of knowledge exchange. The significant "informal settings may include unplanned meeting in bazaar, workshops, family gatherings, workplaces or community centers. These informal platforms offer variety of information exchange from greetings to problem solving. Although, this mode of information exchange is not in categorized or standardized form but often it provides different approaches to solve complex problems. These meeting may start with disagreement but ends with accomolation of new information. With passage of time, it becomes the source of vibrant mutual bond. Moreover, informal learning opens the human mind at broader spectrum. A regular participent of these collabrative session may miss these opportunities as people do not have much spare time for these interactions. The decline in such meetups may weaken social bond. Yet some observers argue that the informal continues to adapt different shapes while retaining its essence.

M T W T F S