Success in life is not only dependent on fate or good luck, rather ~~it~~ ^{it} is a result of steadfastness, hardwork and intelligence. Although, ways often fill with difficult and not ~~accepted~~ hindrance, but they keep going forward with courage and determination, they become successful in reaching their destiny. Some people see others with the sight of jealousy/envy and take decisions in hurry, because of which they got stucked in the net of grasp of failure; whereas those who give importance to experience and advice, they find a chance in every difficulty. Those people who identify their weaknesses and try to control them, they not only themselves get successful but also become guiding light for others. In this way, those who desire to get knowledge and learn from new experiments, they become able to take decisions in their action and thought and ~~at~~ action.
