Q.No. 1

There exist a popular error and fundamental misconception in the imagination regarding the relationship between tradition and progress. It has poisoned our discourse and impoverished our civilization. That is we see these two forces as locked in eternal opposition, with tradition representing the dead hand of the past and progress ^{ve} presenting the dynamic energy. ^{Because} This misconception has led us into dangerous intellectual trap of aligning with one and abandoning the other.

Q.No. 2

The author very wisely used the examples from history to challenge the notion that progress requires abandoning of the past. Such as, the scholars of European Renaissance looked backward to classical antiquity even

The author demonstrated as they moved forward into modernity. It is how every great renaissance is human history has involved not a rejection of the past but a creative reappropriation of it.

By describing tradition as "a living conversation across generations" rather than "a static repository of dead customs", author means that tradition and culture is the accumulated wisdom of generations who faced problems fundamentally similar to our own. Instead of getting benefit from these sources of wisdom we have abandoned them as 'a static repository of dead customs'.

Q.No.4

According to the passage the existing paradox in the modern search for meaning is seeking it in the exotic spiritualities, therapeutic techniques, and political movements, never suspecting what they seek might be found in traditions they have been taught to abandon/despise. This reveals, about the modern society, their being in an illusion instead of being connected to their roots.

Q.No. 5

I totally agree with author's argument that distinguishing between valuable traditions and harmful ones require "real intelligence and judgement". Such distinction is ~~is~~ absolutely possible. If our approach is corrected to justify them on the basis of logic not merely ^{under} the influence of ^{the} popular misconception of tradition and progress.

~ (Q.5) - (A)

The minister addressing the gathering said, "my fellow citizens, we stand today at a critical juncture in our nation's history. We must ask ourselves: are we prepared to face the challenges ahead or shall we succumb to despondency and inaction?" Dr. Ahmed, the renowned economist had warned us last year that, unless immediate reforms are undertaken, the economy will collapse. However, his advice was not heeded. Now, we find ourselves in precisely the predicament he had predicted. Therefore, I urge you all to support the government's new economic policy , which though painful in the short term will yield beneficial results in the long

Q.No-7

Literature
Etiquette is the pulse of every society, which reflects the moral and spiritual state of a society. A nation, which is declining in its etiquettes and manners, is considered to be at the verge of its end. Alas, today the true value and essence of manners has been lost. It is invaded by elites and mafias. ~~of~~ A writer who sells his writing, actually sells his conscience. A true writer is the one who raises his voice for truth and against the evil be it demands him making sacrifices. ^{unfortunately,} But today, such courageous writers have been lost and quite ~~rare~~ ^{the} extinct. Today writers are striving ^{more} to please the elites of a society. And it is an immense disloyalty to literature etiquette and a huge betrayal to the nation.
