Lost Wholeness in Modern Intellectual Culture
Specialization to Intellectual life

Expertization has created curiosity in human life. As knowledge becomes specialized, humans face difficulty to deal with increasing problems. Humans move to different specialists to find solutions. Specialist experts in his work, does not make person wise about life as a whole. Every specialist look and judge human beings according to his expertise. For an Economist, human is rational creature. Biologist sees them as a gene for reproduction. A psychologist views them on the basis of behaviour and thinking. Each of these way looking at human life reveals some truth and hides some <sup>very</sup> important. This breakable pieces of knowledge make human unable to handle problems. Humans intellectual giving more importance to experts has weaken their intellect, this make them childish and turn them from active producers to passive consumers. Getting back to wholeness in thinking, humans need educational institutions to teach students about broad and deep thinking rather than narrow speciality. Humans need to trust in intelligence shaped by these and thoughts to make right decisions. By putting knowledge back

Literature is pulse of every society which expresses its spiritual and moral state. When literature of any nation declines, it understands that nation about to face troubles. Alas! Today's literature has become market-driven. The mafia has got it in its grip. The writer who sells his pen for money, he actually sells his conscience. A true scholar is one who raises the voice of truth and raise the pen against falsehood. Even if he has make many sacrifices. But in today's world there is shortage of that capable scholars. Often writers are seen bowing their heads at the doorstep of power. The right way to please the powerful class with its action is achieved. This is trachery against literature and betrayal of the nation.
