QUESTION NUMBER 05

(A) - Punctuation

04/05

The minister, addressing the gathering, said; "My fellow citizens, we stand today at a critical juncture in our nations history. We must ask ourselves. Are we prepared to face the challenges ahead or shall we succumb to despondency and inaction?" Dr. Ahmed - the renowned Economist - had warned us last years that unless immediate reforms are undertaken, the economy will collapse. However, his advice was not heeded. Now we find ourselves in precisely the predicament, he had predicted. Therefore, I urge you all to support the government's new economic policy which though painful in the short term, will yield beneficial results in the long run. "Let's not," he continued, "repeat the mistakes of the past. Let's move forward with determination and courage."

Comprehension

1. The author identifies a popular misconception regarding the relation between tradition and progress. The popular myth is that tradition and progress do not go hand in hand. One must cut the roots of traditions to progress. This misconception has poisoned discourse and civilization by acting as intellectual trap.

2. The author reflects the notion by providing the ^{evidence} evidences that till now, the scholars of European Renaissance look backward to classic antiquity. He adds that even the scientific revolutions involve the working on neglections of previous work. He says that even a tree requires strong roots to grow.

3. The writer emphasizes on the fact that tradition acts as a living conservation across generations. Tradition provides roots to the society to flourish upon.

4. According to the passage, the people of the modern world strives for the search of meaning, purpose and identity in exotic spiritualities, therapeutic techniques and political movements. This predicts that the modern society is far away from its roots - traditions because they might seek the meaning in their own tradition.

5. No, the distinction between tradition and progress is not possible because the tradition, culture and civilization pave the way of progress and act as a ladder for the flourishing of progress and prosperity.

QUESTION No. 02

The Limits of Specialization

Jack Of No Trades, Master Of One

Don't do this ^{rise of} (The ↑ expertise) ✓

The rise of expertise has created a space in intellectual world. Knowledge becomes more specialized that it would not be able to deal with the basic problems that face ✓ humanity. The expert of one's work can only give a narrow vision of reality. He sees the world through specific lens of his nature of specialization. To an economist, human beings are rationale creatures, while a biologist looks them as carriers of genes. Each specialist reveals something true, but also hides something important. Modern intellectual world looks like a broken mirror, with each piece showing a distorted reflection of truth. ✓ our trust in common sense and ordinary human judgement. This makes us childish, turning us from active citizens to passive consumers. However, we need persons who can go to every discipline of knowledge, bringing together ideas from different fields into one narrow speciality. Until we manage to put knowledge together again, we shall go for the era of experts.
