QUESTION : 02

Topic: ^{expertise} The specialization of knowledge: ~~And~~ intellectual paradox Lost Wholeness in Modern Intellectual Culture

Precis:

The expertise of knowledge has made it difficult for man to deal with basic problems. We turn to experts to organize societies, ^{for} development, welfare, ~~no~~ forgetting that they are experts of their particular fields and view the world through their respective disciplines. The biologist, economists ^{and} psychologists view humans as carriers of genes, rational creatures and unconscious impulses ^{respectively} but do not understand life as a whole. This fragmentation has made it difficult to solve problems unfittable into one specific category. For example, climate change is a social, political, cultural, scientific, moral, economic and a scientific problems but ~~in~~ in our efforts to address it into pieces with different subject experts, the language of one is not understood by others. The medieval thinkers had all different kinds of knowledge but today's world thinkers don't have a holistic picture knowledge of life. ~~Our~~ Moreover, ~~our~~ overdependence on experts have ~~make~~ ~~us~~ weakened ~~us~~ in common sense human judgement and ^{making} basic life decision. ~~eg~~ We should move back to wholeness in thinking, while not disregarding specialized knowledge but to bring together ideas from various areas to solve complicated problems. We need universities and schools that teach to think broadly as well as deeply, and need to restore ~~our~~ faith in culturally shaped ordinary intelligence to make a good decision, otherwise ~~we~~ we will enter a civilization where experts will know more about less and will be unable to solve complicated problems. LUCKY

(A) Punctuation:

The minister, addressing the gathering, said, "My fellow citizens! We stand today at a critical juncture in our nation's history.
We must ask ourselves, are we prepared to face the challenges? Or shall we succumb to despondency and inaction?" Dr. Ahmed, the renowned economist, had warned us last year that unless immediate reforms are undertaken, the economy will collapse.
However, his advice was not heeded. Now we find ourselves in precisely the predicament he had predicted. Therefore, I urge you all to support the government's new economic policy, which, though painful in short-term, will yield beneficial results in the long-term. Let's not, ^{he} continued, repeat the mistakes of the past. Let's move forward with determination and courage."
