Q4. Translation :

The success in life is not only a game of fate or good fortune, but also a result of consistency, hardwork and intellect. Although the paths are often complicated by difficult and uncertain hurdles, those who move forward with courage and determination are able to reach their destination. Some people see other's success with envy and decide in hurry. Hence, they fell prey to failure. While those who value experience and suggestion, they find an opportunity in every difficulty. Those who try to change their ill habits after realizing them, they not only succeed themselves but also serve as a beacon of light for others. In the same way, those who are keen to seek knowledge and learn from new experiences, they are able to make better decisions in their thought and action.

Q3. Direct / Indirect :

Emma asked Jake if he had seen the latest draft of the community project proposal. Jake replied in affirmation and further said that he had looked over it the night before. He commented that it was fine overall, but some parts needed more detail.

Emma asked which parts were unclear.

Jake replied that the budget section was a bit vague, and the timeline was not really accounting for delays.

Emma said that she had noticed that too. She further asked if they should try to fix it before the meeting scheduled ^{for} the day after. Jake replied that they should fix it because if they left it as it was, the committee might question their planning. Emmas said that she would handle the budget section and further asked him if he could take care of the timeline. Jake replied in affirmation and further added that they should also throw in a note about risk management in case they needed it. Emma appreciated his idea and said that let them meet after lunch to combine their changes and finalize them. Jake agreed with the idea and hoped that that version would impress the committee and avoid unnecessary questions.

The Significance of Informal Learning.

Learning is not restricted to mere formal institutions. Another form of learning called informal learning occurs outside formal institutions. It is acquired most of the time through interaction and observation; hence, accounts for most of the knowledge of individuals. It occurs through community engagement where individuals gather for one purpose, but share opinions on many other subjects. They also learn to deal with the difference of opinions through engagement, not argument. It serves as a valuable skill in life, helping individuals to apply the acquired knowledge in multiple contexts. Nowadays, due to weakening community engagement, informal learning is diminishing. Thus, the circle of learning beyond formal spaces is contracting. However, it is believed that informal
