Questions:

Question No. 1

Answer:

Most of us fail in our efforts for ^{self-improvement} because our plans are usually unrealistic. We set goals based on our desiring success, but in reality we do not have time and discipline to achieve them. As a result, we fail in our efforts of self-improvement and return to our old habits and behaviors.

Question No 2

Ans: Announcing our resolutions to everyone is a mistake because when we fail to keep our resolutions, we feel embarrassed and foolish in front of others. Publicly declaring resolutions creates social pressure, and when we slip back to our old habits

it become us more humiliating and discouraging. So, we should not announce our resolutions to everybody.

Question. NO 3

Ans: The writer did not carry out his resolution on New Year's Day
because he had attended an overnight
party on New Year's Eve. As a result, he was too tired and he postponed to
starting his ^{new} routine until the next day.
