Translation:

History is full of those successful peoples who started their lives in difficult circumstances, but in future they count down in the world's successful and famous personalities.

Success, honoo and fame are never served you in a platter; only wealth can be served you in a platter;

for this a strict condition is that the property must be inherited from your ancestors, then you will get wealth. From wealth you can buy worldly luxuries but you can not buy happiness. Sometimes, it takes decades to earn honoo, but one instance is enough to earn dishonoo and to become controversial.
