Translation:

History is full of those successful ^{people} peoples who started their lives in difficult circumstances, but in ^{later} future they ^{were counted} count down in the world's successful and famous personalities.

Success, honoo and fame are never seved you in a platter; only wealth can be seved you in a platter;

for this a strict condition is that the property must be inherited from your ^{ancestors} ancesstors, then you will get wealth.

^{With} wealth you can buy worldly luxuries but you can not ^{by} happiness. Sometimes, it takes decades to earn honoo, but one instance ^{is} is enough to earn dishonoo and to become controversial.
