Total Marks: 30

Q. 1.A. Punctuate the following sentences. (05 Marks)

it was almost midnight when the young scholar returned to his rooms he had left them in a state of revolt piles of books lay like islands in a turbulent sea papers fluttered on the floor as if impatient to be read and on the desk a single lamp burned its halo warming a photograph of his grandmother which seemed to smile even in such disorder who would have thought she once peddled tales to children in the village he wondered would she have laughed at his neat theories written now in the margins of a book

B. Narration of a dialogue to be written in paragraph form. (05 Marks)

John: Good afternoon, Sara! Still buried in your books, I see. Why don't you take a little rest and join us for a walk along the river?

Sara: I wish I could, but the examination is hanging over my head, and every minute feels precious to me now.

John: Ah, these examinations! They steal all the joy of youth. I cannot understand how you endure such constant pressure.

Sara: It is not merely the examination I work for, but the discipline and knowledge that come with sincere study.

John: Yet life is not all books and seriousness; a weary mind grows dull and unproductive.

Sara: True, but I believe temporary weariness is a small price for the satisfaction of achieving what one has set his heart upon.
